COULD NOT SEE THE FUTURE

Oldtime Clevelander's Rebute of "Visionary" Makes Interesting Reading at This Time.

A Cleveland man who has inherited s mass of ancient correspondence ran across the following letter some time age and found in it a little sermen on time's mutations. It was written in 1853 to an ancestor of his, a citizen of many activities, the writer being Hon. John W. Allen, lawyer, editor, congresaman, the first president of the Soclety for Savings.

It appears that the recipient of the letter had written to his congresses suggesting a railway across the continent, an amazing vision in 1853. Did Congressman Allen take kindly to the suggestion? He did not. On the contrary he gave the author of the wild scheme a neat dressing down.

Why do you want at your age." he wrote, "and with property enough for your comfort and the well being of your children, to embark in such a When you crasy undertaking? are well, don't take physic, Truly your friend, J. W. Allen."

It will be noted that the world and the railways have advanced a good deal since that soleron warning was

Up in the mountains, where snow rovers the ground more than buil the year and zero blasts whistle out of the north, lies the town of Chaudesaigues, and in this town there has not been a heating stove or a furnace for many years. Coat, firewood and gas

It is in Auvergne, France, and the explanation of its emancipation from sect and furnaces and ashes lies in the face that it is built in what was the cruter of a volcano, and from the ground be neath comes boiling water in great rolume. Lectures Pour Tous, a Parts magazine, tells how this water is piped through the streets and under ho throughout the town without cost to the resident. Even in the coldest weather, and it gets very cold in Chaudesaignes well below zero the houses are kept at a halmy temperature merely by raising a trup do the floor and letting out the heat from the flowing waters, the magazine mys.

Looting by the Ancients.

After the battle of Cannae August 2 216 R. C .- in which the Roman were totally defeated by Hannibal, the Carthaginian leader ordered that the gold rings should be taken from the hands of the dead Romans and heaped up in the vestibule of his quarters. Enough were collected to fill a bushel hasket, and they were sent to Carthage, not as valuable spoils of war. but as proof of the great slaughter among the Roman patricians and knights, for at that time none below the rank of knights, and only those of highest standing among them, those provided with steeds by the state, had en given the right to wear gold rings. On days of national mourning the gold rings were laid saide as mark of sorrow and respect and troo rings were substituted. This was the case after the defeat at Cannae and on the funeral day of Augustus Cuesar In A. D. 14.
